Library Report.

The trustees of the Durham Public Library submit the following as their first report of the library since its opening to the public, which covers a period of ten months from April 15, 1893, to Feb. 15, 1894.

The contract between the town and the Durham Public Library Association was signed March 24, 1893, and the Board of Trustees organized with Hon. J. B. Smith, President; Lucien Thompson, Secretary; Miss Carrie E. Buzzell, Treasurer, and Miss Mary E. Smith, Librarian.

All officers of the library serve without pay, except the librarian, who by vote of the trustees, is allowed 50 cents for each time the library is opened for the distribution of books, and tendollars a year for janitor work.

Upon the organization of the Trustees, suitable By-Laws and Rules and Regulations were adopted for the government of the library officers, and the books of the public library were at once stamped with an impression stamp.

Record slips, registration slips, accession slips, and card for the use of the patrons of the library were printed, and on April 15, 1893, the library was opened to the public.

The town secured by its contract with the Durham Library Association, the free use of their library of about 3,500 books, and its building and rooms for the storage and distribution of books.

The one hundred dollars worth of books has been secured from the State of New Hampshire, and these, together with those purchased from the town appropriation, have been kept separate from the books of the Durham Library Association, thus entailing a large amount of work upon the librarian.

There are in the library about 3900 volumes, and additions are made by a committee appointed to select and purchase books, almost weekly.

During the ten months, there have been distributed to the one hundred ninety patrons, 3,850 books. The weekly average circulation has been about one hundred volumes.

The records of the librarian show a constantly increasing circulation up to the time of making this report, when about two hundred books have been given out during the week.

There have been added during the year, 476 books and pamphlets, mostly books. These have been acquired as follows:

By purchase	224
Books from the State of New Hampshire	105
Books presented by Miss Mary E. Smith	74
Books presented by U. S. Government	20
Book presented by Lucien Thompson	16
Books presented by Mary L. and Charlotte Thompson	8
Books presented by Hon. J. B. Smith	5
Books presented by Mrs. H. A. Mathes	2
Books presented by Col. Daniel Hall	1
Books presented by Mrs. W. E. Chandler	1
	476

The Library Treasurer's report which is appended shows the receipts and disbursements on account of the library. The $12.50 collected by the librarian as fines has been expended for binding sixteen books and magazines presented by Miss Mary E. Smith. The publishers of the College Monthly, "The Enaichsee," have contributed a copy of their publication as it has been published, and this will be preserved in bound as the numbers are completed.

The public are indebted to Miss Mary E. Smith, the librarian, for services rendered and money expended.

Through her efforts, the library service has been improved, and the distribution of books made easy by the use of a valuable card catalogue. Her salary as librarian has been more than paid out for books and other supplies, which render the library more valuable; and they are also indebted to the Misses Mary A. Burnham, Carrie E. Buzzell and Mary Kelley, for assisting the librarian in renumbering, marking and cataloguing the books. This was a very laborious work, taking weeks of time, and it was done with only the compensation of having rendered valuable service to the public.

The president, treasurer and secretary have performed valuable services which should be publicly acknowledged, and the thanks of every citizen are due to all who have contributed books.

The Durham Library association put their property in the best possible condition for the public use without expense to the town, having this year from their own funds placed a new stone hitching post and stone steps in front of the library building, put a new window in the building and lowered the bank wall on the west side of the building so as to give more and better light, put new shelves in the rooms and devoted the hall in the second story to the use of the library, and paid the insurance on building and library without expense to the town.

The expenses of the library will probably be less for the next year, as the expenses incurred in procuring the Public Library stamp, cards, slips, record slips and record books for the officers, and other things necessary to start the library will not be needed again the coming year.

MERRILL MERRITT,

Report of the School Board.

FOR THE YEAR ENDING FEB. 15, 1894.

We present the following as the annual report for the schools of Durham for the year 1893.

No great events have marked the course of the year, but the schools have run smoothly with no interruptions on account of sickness, epidemics or impassable roads, and all closed Feb. 9, having completed the thirty weeks.

By your generous vote one year ago, we had $700 extra school money. This has been supplemented by a balance of $441.66 from sale of school-houses, making a total of $1141.66. We have curtailed expenses somewhat by satisfactory arrangements made with parents at Bridge and Mast Road districts, so that we have maintained only one term of school at Mast Road and none at Bridge, and are pleased to report a balance of $1065.49 in the treasury, after giving pupils the customary number of weeks. We have found this method of transportation much more economical for the district, and certainly more beneficial to pupils, for larger classes and better instruction have been a stimulus to their work, and we can report them more regular and punctual in attendance.

In view of the fact that instead of a deficit, as was the case one year ago, we have so large a balance on hand, we would recommend that no extra school money be raised this year, and also that the number of school weeks in the year be increased to thirty-five, believing it will not only be of great benefit to pupils, but an inducement to hold our present eff cient teachers, or in case of vacancies in the future, it will aid in securing those of good quality.

We have ever found the tax-payers ready to give generously for education, and we hope this matter may be taken into consideration.

In the spring, a public examination of teachers was held, the results of which were not altogether satisfactory. While we think examination of teachers is desirable, we do not believe it is an infallible proof of efficiency.

The old school-houses and lots have been sold according to vote of the district, the work of which was under the supervision of Mr. DeMeritt by vote of the school board. (We call attention to report as given in appendix.)

The fencing and grading of Village School-house lots, as per vote of district, was attended to early in the year, the board delegating the work to Mr. Woodman.

Improvements and progress in a marked degree have been evident in the work of the schools, and we believe it has been thorough and wisely directed.

The instruction in most cases has been broad and far-reaching, and has been real training for the proper discharge of the general duties of life.

We heartily endorse our present corps of teachers, as we find them alive to their responsibilities, fully realizing the demands of the age.

We are pleased to note in some instances their familiarity with the methods of the best educators of the day. We cannot commend too highly the work of the v llage grammar and Durham Point schools. The interest in both has been unabated and pupils have been inspired to aim high and attain the greatest results, and we judge from the cheerful atmosphere that seemed to pervade the schoolrooms, that their duties became a pleasure and their tasks were joyful ones.

Many of the first grammar class have had graduating honors in mind and have worked with a will to fit for the high school.

We feel confident of their success, as we know their drill and training will allow them to compete with other pupils of the same grade. We trust they may aspire not only to high school but college life, also for which now they are laying so good a foundation.

We hope the youth appreciate the rare opportunity presented by the college of our town, and will make every possible effort to become fitted for entrance.

It is difficult to give a full account of the several schools or cover the ground satisfactorily. We believe the parents and citizens lose a high privilege when they fail to know the value of the schools by frequent visitations.

We have found, that in general, teachers have sought to improve their work. We have noted their desire to read educational journals, to visit schools of large cities during vacation, thus seeking apparatus for the better teaching of certain studies and the broadening influence they have striven to exert in their different charges.

In most of the schools language has had a large place and has been taught with much better success. A great deal of written work has been given pupils so that they are enabled to present neat and carefully arranged papers, testing their knowledge of English, and Language has not been drudgery as in cases of learning unexplained rules and formulæ, but their ability to show originality, to cultivate imagination, to reproduce the thoughts of noted authors has been well brought out.

Great care, too, has been given to punctuation and arrangement of sentences.

We believe this is becoming one of the prominent features of school work and rightly so, and are glad to see any improvement along that line. By so much written work, we find pupils improving in penmanship, and we, think written exercises on paper greatly aid in this branch, as pen and ink work brings better results as far as neatness and accuracy are concerned, than the careless slate work.

By use of the free text book system, considerable supplementary reading could be obtained at cheap rates, and this has always brought great interest to pupils and become a means of recreation and reward in this important branch of study.

It gives them acquaintance with different styles of writing and knowledge of various authors.

We believe intelligent reading is greatly to be desired, and while we do not claim our pupils are thus proficient, we do feel that most teachers are striving to get expression and promptness from pupils, and to teach them to study words that the reading may convey meaning to them.

Much might be said in regard to the teaching of various studies, would space permit.

We trust the time will soon come when only prominent facts and essentials shall be taught in history and geography, when pupils shall learn to think and reason by the study of arithmetic.

In this branch more than in any other, comes the temptation to directly aid rather than to suggest and develop.

Scientific Temperance Instruction required by law, has not been overlooked.

Supplementary text books have been furnished teachers, colored temperance charts have been given them, and Mrs. Hunt's Monthly advices, for which the W. C. T. U. of our town subscribed, have been distributed to them. The press of work in ungraded schools tends to crowd out this good work, but we hope much knowledge may be imparted and facts gained, which shall firmly establish in the young mind the principles of temperance and morality.

We trust the value of a noble character may be impressed upon our youth, as well as the demand for a liberal education, so that virtue and knowledge may go hand in hand, and mind and heart be fitted for the responsible and important duties of citizenship.
